

An aerial view of an archaeological excavation site. Several workers in white shirts and hats are working in a large, deep pit. A yellow bucket and a white bucket are visible in the background. A person in a blue cap and patterned shirt is sitting in a smaller pit in the foreground. The ground is reddish-brown soil. The text "LUMS POND STATE PARK, DELAWARE" is overlaid in the center.

LUMS POND STATE PARK, DELAWARE

Archaeologists excavated Native American pits at Lums Pond State Park, Delaware. The pits dated to 850 BC and contained waste from site activities, including arrowheads and pottery. For more information, contact Mike Petraglia at (703) 218-1084 or the Delaware Department of Transportation, Division of Planning, at 1(800) 652-5600.

STAMP

TO:

