James J. Deputy
Secretary

The primary function of the Secretary's office is to keep the financial machinery of the Department in tune and operating smoothly.

Here a fast moving, efficient automatic machine accounting system keeps daily tab on the standing of each of the several hundred accounts in the Department. The money which operates the State Highway Department is taxpayers' money and it is treated as just such a valuable trust.

The State Highway Department is the largest service organization in the State government. It takes money to provide this service and it takes an organization to keep control and account for this money.

The Secretary's office is also charged with collecting the Motor Fuel Taxes which with the accounting and refunds is a public service often overlooked by the public.

Machines speed accurate accounting.
